Definition of a 'Credible Project'

Date: 22 November 2021

All IWG investment funds are based on a foundation of credibility. This is most prevalent in the credibility of projects inside each investment fund which we create on behalf of our clients. Without this credibility, such investment funds would not pass our Standard & Poors stress testing and would not qualify as investment grade.

Alternative Investment Fund (AIF) have credible projects which are both feasible and viable within them, and always have more than one at any single point of its existence from first creation, registration and ultimately its listing, with a requirement of each AIF project to comply with the following definitions.

- A credible project is a commercial development opportunity which under deep due diligence scrutiny, passes financial and business model stress tests, yet remains robust in its ability to perform positively and yield predetermined minimum returns on investments and/or debt finance.
- Feasibility is the possibility and ability for something to be done profitably.
- Viability is that something's ability to survive or endure
