

The 'Why' Question

Here's something to consider. Why hand a cut of every project to a fund?

Why hand a cut of every project or your company, to a venture capitalist, a private equity, a bank or lender, an institution or anyone else for that matter?

Why hand a significant portion of what you create to someone or something in exchange just for the short term risk it took to capitalise your projects?

Why approach a bank or lender to provide you with the cash you need to begin, continue, or scale your projects, and subject yourself and your business to strenuous time frames and high interest rates or returns payable usually from month one?

Why, when you can have your own investment fund, providing you with a perpetual stream of investment capital into your own fund, with capital provided by institutions through long term investments who do not necessarily require to be paid back immediately either, if ever, and by continually adding credible projects to your own fund which consequently keeps developing capital attraction to it, and which removes the necessity for you to ever ask anyone or apply to anything for funding again?

Why would you not want to do that?

STOP GIVING AWAY A CUT OF WHAT YOU CREATE. OWN YOUR FUND. OWN YOUR FUTURE.

THE OLD WAY

VENTURE CAPITALISTS
They take a cut.

PRIVATE EQUITY FIRMS
They take a cut.

BANKS & LENDERS
High interest.
Strenuous timeframes.

INSTITUTIONS & OTHERS
They take a cut.

SHORT TERM THINKING.
THEIR RETURNS. THEIR CONTROL.

LESS OF WHAT YOU BUILD.
MORE OF WHAT THEY TAKE.

THE IWG WAY

YOUR OWN INVESTMENT FUND.
YOUR PERPETUAL CAPITAL ENGINE.

INSTITUTIONAL CAPITAL
Long term investments.
Not always required to be paid back immediately, if ever.

CREDIBLE PROJECTS
Add strong projects to your fund and continually increase its capital attraction.

PERPETUAL CAPITAL FLOW
A continual stream of investment capital into your fund.

FREEDOM & CONTROL
No more asking.
No more applications.
No more giving up a cut.
